

We help our customers in the field of process, climate and environmental technology with innovative measurement and monitoring solutions.

You are passionate about measuring physical parameters such as humidity, temperature, flow and pressure to optimize processes in terms of efficiency, safety and environmental impact. Finding suitable solutions for customers is your goal, then you are the right person for us as a creative beginner as well as a sales professional.

Become part of our team

Technical salesman/saleswoman

Your tasks:

- You will develop individual measurement technology and data acquisition solutions for companies in Hungary.
- In addition to supporting existing customers, you will also acquire new customers and promote long-term partnerships.
- Based on market observations, you will develop business opportunities, solutions and activities for your sales area and set sales priorities for the respective customer segment.
- You represent our company to our customers.
- You work with our CRM system

We expect:

- You have already gained initial experience in dealing with customers or have completed training or further training in sales, marketing or advertising.
- You are enthusiastic about measurement technology, digitalization and their tools and you apply them in your job.
- You are communicative and enjoy regular interaction with customers and partners, both in person and via digital channels.
- Your determined, motivated and reliable nature sets you apart.

MEASURE it ...

We offer:

- In this job, you have a high degree of creative freedom and can organize your own work week.
- We value independence and encourage appreciation, respect and cooperation.
- Ongoing feedback, the introduction of ideas and opportunities for further training and development are important to us.
- You will be assigned an independent and responsible area of activity and you will receive support not only from your manager.
- Home office, flexible working hours, meal allowances and great benefits are part of our great offer, along with laptop, smartphone and a modern working environment.
- An attractive salary system with a gross monthly fixed salary starting at EUR 2,500, - plus performance-based commission payment.

Are you curious? Then send an online application to Wolfgang Häusler right away. We are looking forward to hearing from you!